

A Masked Code: During the American Revolution spies sent messages using codes. One of the codes used was a “mask” code. If you were a spy, you might get a message like this one. It looks like a regular note. But you have the secret mask to help you decode it. Print out the message, fold along the dotted line, and hold it up to strong light. (You can also cut out the shape.) Reveal the secret message for Paul Revere about the Patriot meeting in Watertown!

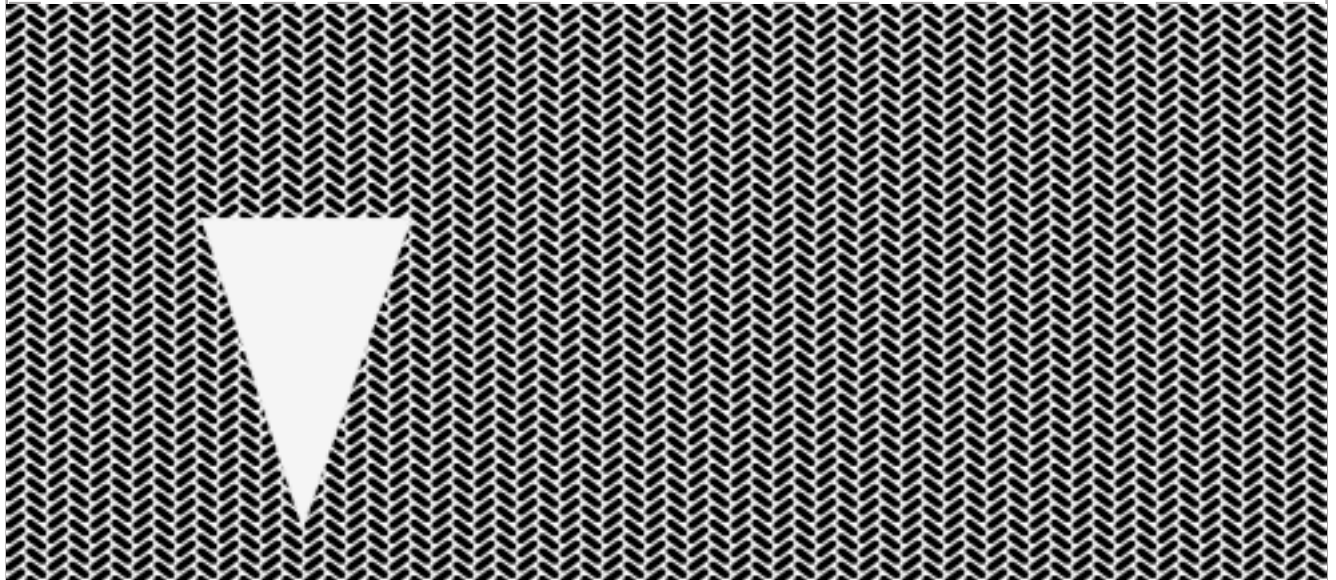

Dear Revere,

Boston is the same. No sugar, no tea, which the army won't allow to pass the Neck. I'm sure the king will have his way. One word about your return. We look forward to it.

There is silver waiting for you to make things with!

Your friend,
Joseph Warren
